Positions in Fire and Aviation Management

Engine Crews - These teams of two to ten firefighters work with specialized wildland fire engines that carry special equipment to spray water and foam.

Handcrews - These 20-person teams construct firelines around wildfires to control them, burn out fire areas, and mop up after fires.

Hotshot Crews - These are the most highly skilled type of handcrews and are typically assigned to work on the most challenging parts of wildfires. Click here

Helitack Crews - These firefighters are transported by helicopters to wildfires and also perform logistical support missions.

Examples of Entry Level Training Provided

Basic Firefighter Training

This introductory course is designed to train beginning firefighters. Participants will be introduced to and gain knowledge of the basic incident management organization, firefighting techniques, suppression equipment, safety, strategy, and tactics along with fire behavior. Field exercises will be performed for experiential training. Other (training) subject matter will include:

- Introduction to Incident Command System (ICS)
- National Incident Management System (NIMS)
- Basic Concepts of Wildland firefighting
- Preparedness, Incident Command Systems, and Resources
- Watch Out Situations and Look Outs, Communication, Escape Routes, and Safety Zones (LCES)
- Potential Hazards and Human Factors in the Wildland Fire Service
- Fuel, Topography, and Weather
- Fire Behavior
- Transportation Safety
- Hand Tools
- Firing Devices
- Water Use
- Hazardous Materials
- Wildland Urban Interface
- Optional Knowledge Areas
- Performance Day Requirements
- Suppression, Communication, and Mop-up

Fitness Requirements

Wildland firefighting is a physically demanding job and there is an arduous fitness requirement for employment on a crew. All candidates are required to conduct a “Work Capacity Test,” also known as a Pack Test, requiring you to walk 3 miles in 45 minutes or less with a 45 pound pack.

Many crews will be expected to hike several miles to the fire and begin to dig line or remove fuels (wood and timber) immediately. The physical endurance required is significant and you should be well prepared to work all day and night under hazardous conditions.

Hours and Salary

The hours on a fire are long, up to 16+ hours while actively suppressing or mopping up a fire. This can be for as short as a few days, to multiple weeks. Federal agencies will recruit at the GS-3 to GS-5 rate for new fire recruits, ranging between $10/hr. to $15/hr. The number of hours worked are dependent on the number and duration of fires and are impossible to predict, but your take home pay at the end of the fire season can be between $30,000 and $40,000 during an active season. Benefits of these long hours are building relationships with hard working men and women, while providing a valuable public service protecting lives and property in California and other parts of the country.

Note: This is a base rate for pay, overtime and many other pay differentials are applied when work requirements exceed your normal work hours. The standard tour of duty is a 5 day/40 hour work week and you will be expected to work weekends and holidays when fire conditions warrant.
About the Forest
The Los Padres National Forest provides Southern California and the Central Coast Area with a variety of terrain, vegetation, and recreational settings. There are 1,257 miles of maintained trails which provide both day-use and extended backpacking opportunities. Much of the forest is roadless, remote and has 10 congressionally designated wilderness areas comprising approximately 875,000 acres, or about 48% of the forest. These include the Ventana, Silver Peak, Santa Lucia, Machesna, Garcia, San Rafael, Dick Smith, Sespe, Matilija and Chumash wildernesses. The forest is divided into five administrative units called “Ranger Districts” with district offices in King City, Santa Maria, Santa Barbara, Ojai and Frazier Park.
